Gambling With Your Health

As more and more evidence regarding the HRT (hormone replacement therapy) drug scandal comes to light, relying on conventional medicine to treat your health is like playing Russian Roulette with your life. Virtually every popular treatment offered by conventional medicine is potentially deadly: Chemotherapy kills more patients than it saves, bariatric surgery kills thousands of obese patients right on the operating table, HRT drugs double your risk of breast cancer and pharmaceuticals may double your risk of heart attacks or stroke.

Over-the-counter painkillers can kill you from internal bleeding, vaccines cause autism and Alzheimer's disease, antidepressant drugs cause diabetes, diabetes drugs double the risk of bone fractures, and statin drugs cause eye disorders too. This might be what Big Pharma's researchers mean when they say their studies are “double blind”.

Dr. Gary Null, in his book Death By Medicine, says that the industry of modern medicine kills 783,000 Americans a year. Sadly, it saves nowhere near that number, meaning that America would be better off without modern medicine at all!

Every time you pop a pill, it's like betting on a roulette wheel in Vegas. Only it's not your money that's at risk, it's your life!

Yeah, you could get lucky and a good spin might result in having your symptoms go away for a while. Maybe your cancer tumor will shrink, or your blood pressure is artificially lowered, or you don't feel as much pain because your body is numbed with pharmaceuticals, but if your roulette wheel comes up empty, you could not only lose your bet, you could lose your life!

Various synthetic pharmaceuticals cause liver disease, cancer, heart disease, strokes, kidney failure, impaired brain function, impaired immune system function, loss of sleep quality, impotence, infertility, loss of hair, gastrointestinal bleeding, accelerated aging, neurological disorders and so much more. And these are that drugs that the FDA says are “safe and effective” for treating your health conditions. They don't call the FDA “Fatal Drugs Allowed” for nothing!

Meanwhile, the entire “medical” industry is against nutrition. They say: Don't waste your money on superfoods. Nutrition doesn't work in the human body. Don't visit natural health practitioners. Don't take those vitamins, they might kill you! These are the deceptions of the drug pushers who are far more interested in controlling the marketplace than actually helping you enhance your health.

Every time you take a synthetic pharmaceutical you are betting another piece of your life on a risky gamble. Even doctors don't know the true risks because they are grossly misinformed. Having been taught virtually nothing about nutrition in medical school, doctors are pumped full of so much pro-pharma information that by the time they begin to practice medicine under a state license, they have actually been thoroughly de-educated about health. They probably knew more about health and healing before they entered medical school than after they graduated. Do you think that the Big Pharma funding of their curriculum played a part in that?

From the quackery of flu shots to the harmful effects of mammograms and chemotherapy, much of modern medicine is commercial fraud. Peel back the TV commercials, the brainwashing of doctors and Big Pharma's influence over the mainstream media and you'll find nothing but empty promises, toxic chemicals and obscene profits. The industry of modern medicine is built on scientific fraud.

What we've learned in the past few years is that you can't trust medical journals because they are pushing junk science in order to please their Big Pharma advertisers. You can't trust the media either, since they depend upon drug money to pay salaries. You can't trust lawmakers because almost all of them have been bought off by Big Pharma. And, of course, you cannot trust the government agencies like the Fraud and Drug Administration or the Federal Treachery Commission or the Centers For Deceit Control and Procrastination because they are in bed with these powerful corporations as well. Pimps, hookers and tricks! So, who can you trust?

You can trust Mother Nature! She will never ask you for a royalty on a patent. She gives all her medicine for free and she provides the seeds, soils, rainfall, sunlight and nano technology to construct all the medicines the human body needs. Mother Nature is the answer to our health care problems and she will never bribe a journalist, psych doctor or lawmaker just to promote her products, which is probably why she is not so popular.

It's no wonder then, that virtually the entire medical community has been trying to suppress Mother Nature for so long. The FDA says that Mother Nature is incapable of creating anything useful. After all, nutrients don't have any positive effect on the human body, do they? The FTC says that you can't talk about Mother Nature's medicinal gifts or you'll go to jail. The medical journals say that you can't trust Mother Nature but that you should trust in drugs. And the drug companies insist that they are better than Mother Nature even while they scour the world seeking yet more molecules to rip off from Mother Nature again, again and again.

Mother Nature, it seems, continues to be battered by modern medicine and all its corrupt enforcers. They don't want you to discover the healing miracles offered by Mother Nature, you see. That might cause you to stop playing pharmaceutical roulette with your life and leave the health casino entirely! Gee, the horror.. you might never need another pharmaceutical again!

Stay at the roulette table, they insist! Keep betting your life on pharmaceuticals! Keep placing poker chips on the numbers, hoping against all odds that maybe this pill will finally solve your problems.

The longer you play health care roulette, the longer the house wins! And the House, in this case, is Big Pharma. When you play health care roulette, you are betting against the House. There's one rule every gambler in Vegas learns sooner or later: The House always wins!
